The World of St. Regis

The story of St. Regis begins at the forefront of New York's Gilded Age, where an elite group of cultured families rose to form the country's first aristocracy. The leaders of this new social class were the Astors, America's first multi-millionaires.

Redefining luxury hospitality with destinations such as the Astor House and Waldorf-Astoria, none meant more to matriarch Caroline Astor and her son, John Jacob Astor IV, than St. Regis. Personally engineered by John Jacob Astor IV himself, he envisioned a hotel where a new style of luxury and comfort was afforded to gentlemen and their families.

The first St. Regis opened in 1904 on 55th Street and Fifth Avenue, the most exclusive section of the city at the time, and was declared "The finest hotel in America" by The New York Times.

The St. Regis Rituals

Afternoon Tea

A cherished tradition that comes to life each afternoon around the world. An homage to Mrs. Astor's tradition and legacy. The tea is served in the traditional style, with exquisitely prepared delicacies that provide a one-of-a-kind sensory experience.

Evening Rituals

The transition from day to evening is marked by a ceremony where lights dim, candles glow and music fills the air. The celebrated Champagne Ritual is another signature way to welcome the evening.

The Bloody Mary

Originally called Red Snapper, the Bloody Mary has been the signature cocktail of the St. Regis brand since it was invented by Fernand Petiot in 1936 at the King Cole Bar. 2010 saw the celebration of the Bloody Mary's 75th birthday.
